About the Event

Migrants' health is a key policy development area in public health where knowledge sharing and comparative studies across regions can play an important role. To address that, ASEF's Public Health Network supported a research study led by the Yuchengco Center in The Philippines and Fondazione ISMU in Italy on 'The Health Dimension of Asian Migration to Europe'.

The key findings of this study will be shared through a public talk on Wednesday, 9 October 2013 at Palazzo Sormani – Sala del Grechetto in Milan, Italy. The talk, 'Health of Chinese and Filipino Migrants in Milan', will be organised by ASEF and Fondazione ISMU, with the support from Milan Municipality. Sharing of research findings will be followed by a panel discussion with practitioners from some local authorities.
