In preparation for the 6th ASEF Young Leaders Summit, ASEF organised the ASEFYLS6 Navigators Training in Warsaw, Poland between 13-18 July 2025, hosted in Natolin and in partnership with the College of Europe Natolin. 19 selected young professionals and students from 19 countries in Asia and Europe (Alumni of ASEFEdu and Partner organisations) joined the training to prepare them for their task at hand - taking on the role of 'Navigators' in the subsequent phases, where they would co-lead groups of participants through their team collaboration phases and learning journey.

The training provided an in-depth training on leadership, team collaboration, and design thinking, providing them with the skills and tools needed to lead diverse, intercultural teams through the summit's thematic exploration of "Leadership in Society 5.0."

Leadership in Action Phase September – October | Online

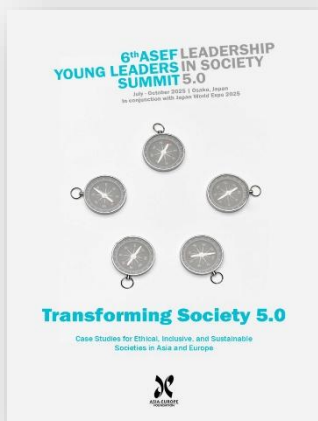

As part of the programme, ASEFYLS6 participants were encouraged to demonstrate their leadership through action. This year, together with UNDP's Youth Empowerment team, we challenged them to find best practice solutions for real-life global challenges.

During this phase participants worked in intercultural teams to collect case studies from across Asia & Europe on how technology is used to solve societal challenges. The challenge questions shaping the case studies were curated and selected in collaboration with the Movers Programme, an initiative by UNDP's Youth Empowerment Portfolio in Asia and the Pacific (YEP-AP). Over the course of nearly two months, the teams collaborated across borders, engaging in online discussions and joint research. The case studies were then presented in-person at the Youth Summit in Osaka, Japan, and at the Japan World Expo 2025.

The challenges were varied and covered the following topics:

- Menstruation and Sustainability
- Waste Reduction and Circular Economy
- Social Housing and Resilient Cities

- Inclusion of the Deaf and Hard of Hearing (DHH) Community
- Rural Healthcare and Digital Access
- Digital Skills for All
- Renewable Energy and Society 5.0
- Enhancing Access to Reproductive Health Education
- Expanding Technology Education
- Farming as an Attractive Career Path

UPCOMING REPORT

Transforming Society 5.0. Case Studies for Ethical, Inclusive and Sustainable Societies in Asia and Europe

The case studies collected by the ASEF Young Leaders will be published by ASEF in early 2026. The report will be a collection of 40 case studies from across Asia and Europe illustrating how technology is being leveraged to address some of today's most pressing societal challenges. This compilation will offer real-world examples of innovation and collaboration, showcasing how ideas are being translated into tangible impact within communities across the two regions.

Through the lens of these case studies, the publication aims to inspire changemakers, especially youth, to reimagine how technology can be applied for social good, placing young leaders at the heart of a more human-centered digital transformation.

SENIOR – JUNIOR LEADERSHIP DIALOGUES

As part of the 6th ASEF Young Leaders Summit (ASEFYLS6), ASEF organised a total of 16 Senior-Junior Leadership Dialogues to foster structured exchanges between young participants and senior leaders, decision-makers, and policymakers. Of these, 2 dialogues were held online and 14 were conducted in person. The first dialogue took place with Ambassador Brendan Dowling, Australia's Ambassador for Cyber Affairs and Critical Technology, followed by a session with Prof. Harshita Aini Haroon, Director of Malaysia's Higher Education Leadership Academy (AKEPT).

While in Osaka, a third dialogue was held in person during the Summit featuring Mr. Nararya S. Soeprapto, Deputy Secretary-General of ASEAN and ASEF Governor for ASEAN. In addition to these sessions, ASEF also facilitated 12 dialogues at various Asian and European Country Pavilions of the World Expo 2025 in Osaka, including the Nordic, Indonesian, Austrian, Australian, Spanish, and IHCR & Red Cross pavilions. A special dialogue on “Leadership in the Era of Society 5.0” was also held in collaboration with the EU Pavilion, featuring H.E. Jean-Eric Paquet, the EU Ambassador to Japan.

OUTCOMES AND IMPACT

Participants who filled up the feedback surveys agreed that the 6th ASEF Young Leaders Summit was successful in achieving the following objectives:

96%

DEVELOPED A BETTER UNDERSTANDING OF DIFFERENT PERSPECTIVES

of participants agree that they have developed their understanding of perspectives to consider during intercultural communication.

INCREASED KNOWLEDGE

of participants have a better understanding of Society 5.0

100%

BUILT CONNECTIONS TO STAY IN TOUCH WITH

of participants agreed they had built closer connections with their peers from their own region, as well as peers from the other region than their own

Participants indicated how strongly they agree with the following statements

“ [ASEFYLS6 taught me that] leadership isn't about speaking the loudest, but about listening deeply. Throughout the Summit, I realised how powerful it is when people from completely different worlds come together with openness and respect. It reminded me that real impact begins when we move beyond our comfort zones, share honestly, and learn from one another's lived experiences. It strengthened my belief that compassion and collaboration are not just soft skills, they're the foundations of real change. ”

Shraddha PANDA
Participant from India

“ Leadership in Society 5.0 is about guiding humanity toward a future where technology serves both sustainability and inclusivity. It reminded me that true progress happens when innovation uplifts people and the planet alike [...] without ethical guidance and inclusive decision-making, digital tools can reinforce inequality, erode trust, and distance us from the very human connections that drive collaboration and compassion. That's why leadership in this new era has to strike the delicate balance between innovating with awareness, so that technology remains a means to empower, not to exclude. ”

Gonçalo TAVARES
Participant from Portugal

“ The most meaningful insight I gained was that the high-tech vision of Society 5.0 a society that heavily integrates cyberspace and physical space requires a surprisingly low tech, human-centered form of leadership. I realised that the biggest barrier to solving global challenges [...] isn't the lack of technology, but the lack of trust, empathy, and intercultural understanding required to mobilise diverse groups around a common vision. "In a world increasingly driven by data and algorithms, the most critical leadership skill is the ability to connect deeply, authentically, and equitably with people from vastly different cultural realities. ”

Thitthiphone OLINH
Participant from Lao PDR

“ The [ASEFYLS6] Youth summit emphasised my perception that through dialogue and communication, great things can be achieved. In a world where unrest and conflict are growing, it is all the more important to be able to communicate with individuals from different backgrounds. Building upon interconnectedness and understanding between nations and leaders, we can shape a better future. We need more dialogue and conversations between people of different backgrounds, creating ties and bridges that can support a global unity network. ”

Sarella ARKKILA
Participant from Finland
